

THE SOCIETY OF TRUST & ESTATE PRACTITIONERS (SINGAPORE)

Proudly Presents

A 2006 REVIEW OF UPDATES & DEVELOPMENTS IN SINGAPORE TRUST LAW & PRACTICE

Supreme Court Auditorium, Basement 2, Supreme Court Building, 1 Supreme Court Lane, Singapore
7 December 2006 (Thursday) • 3.00-6.00pm

About this Seminar

There have been many changes in the environment affecting Trusts in Singapore. The aim of this half day seminar is to address three main areas:

1. the legal environment for trusts;
2. the regulatory environment for trust companies; and
3. the tax efficient trust structures.

This seminar is the first annual Continuing Professional Development seminar organised by STEP Singapore for its members as well as practitioners within the trust and estate industry in general. Through such seminars, STEP Singapore aims to provide regular and timely updates to the industry in the areas of trusts and estates, executorship, administration and related taxes.

3.00-3.15pm	Registrations & Refreshments
3.15-3.20pm	Opening Remarks by Chairperson
	Mr. Bill Lexmond - Regional Head of Wealth Planning, UBS AG; President, STEP Singapore
3.20-4.00pm	LEGAL ENVIRONMENT FOR TRUSTS The legal environment for trusts is a combination of cases and legislation. Trust legislation historically provided for a consolidation of existing rules. However, with the development of offshore financial centres, trust legislation has taken on a much greater importance. The trust services industry cannot wait for appropriate cases that will expand or alter the rules applying in that jurisdiction. To address the needs of the industry, as well as of the persons supported and served by the offshore industry, it is essential that the trust legislation is reviewed, and, where necessary, adapted to fit modern and evolving needs. In Singapore, the legislation was imported from England and applied, at the latest, from 1 September 1929. However, key developments (perpetuity period, delegation powers, validity and effect) waited for changes which were made in 2004. These changes have altered the trust environment in Singapore. Two years later, how are those changes viewed? Are there other areas that still need attention? This session will examine this environment as it is. Recent changes in other jurisdictions will be considered to see whether the competition demands further changes in Singapore. Areas of interest include information access, exculpatory provisions and objects for trusts.
	Mr. Bill Lexmond - Regional Head of Wealth Planning, UBS AG; President, STEP Singapore
4.00-4.20pm	Networking Break
4.20-5.00pm	REGULATION OF TRUST SERVICES INDUSTRY IN SINGAPORE Trusts are a popular investment cum planning vehicle that could be used to a country's economic advantage. As such, the Government of Singapore has sought to attract foreign Trust Companies into Singapore to further develop the trust industry with the view to help create more jobs and investment opportunities within Singapore. It was a logical progression then to enact the Trustees Amendment Act in 2004 to update the Trustees Act (Cap 337) of Singapore. The changes to the Trustees Act have led on to changes to the Trust Companies Act 2005 (Cap 336) [the "TCA"]. Consequently, the TCA and the accompanying Regulations, Notices and Guidelines came into force on 1 February 2006. It provides a new system of regulation for all those carrying on trust business in Singapore and is aimed at increasing legal clarity and guidance for trust companies. The ultimate objective is to achieve high standards of business contract and professionalism in the industry. The TCA repeals the previous Trust Companies Act (Cap. 336) with its voluntary regime and imposes a mandatory regime with the Monetary Authority of Singapore as statutory regulator. This session reviews the new regime as well as its implications on the industry.
	Mr. Steven Lim - Managing Director, HSBC Private Bank (Suisse) SA, Singapore Branch; Vice-President, STEP Singapore
5.00-5.40pm	TAX EFFICIENT TRUSTS STRUCTURES <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. General considerations to be taken into account in creating a tax efficient trust structure 2. General principles of minimising tax using suitable underlying holding companies under a trust structure 3. Whether treaty protection is available - a case study based on Singapore's double tax agreements with China and India 4. Tax exemptions available to domestic and foreign trusts
	Mr. Gurbachan Singh - Head of Tax, Trusts & Estate Department, KhattarWong; Secretary, STEP Singapore
